NATIONAL WHIG NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT, GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT OF NEW JERSEY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT WILLIAM A. GRAHAM,

OF NORTH CAROLINA. A meeting of the officers of the Washing ton Whig Club will be held this evening, 8 o'clock, at Copp's Saloon. A full attendance is desirable.

WALTER LENOX. President. July 20

The regular meeting of the Washington Whig Club will take place to-morrow evening.

Minister to England-Secretary of the Navy-Minister to Mexico.

We have been informed this morning on what we regard as reliable authority that the Hon. Abbott Lawrence has positively tendered his resignation as minister to the Court of St. James, and that Mr. Webster or Mr. Crittenden will be nominated to succeed him.

We further learn that Judge Chambers, of Maryland, has declined the tendered appointment of Secretary of the Navy.

We also learn that Judge Conkling, of New York, was yesterday nominated to the United States Senate for the office of Minister to the Republic of Mexico.

Political Deception.

The manifest intention of our opponents to dupe the American people by letters, declarations, and platforms of chameleon hue, should surely excite their indignation and scorn. A more perfect specimen of this species of fraud than the "Kane letter" was probably never put forth until the recent Democratic Convention smuggled into existence its conflicting and crafty platform. Let any fair and candid man peruse the following:

" Resolved, That the constitution does not confer upon the general government the power to commence and carry on a general system of internal improvements. What does this mean? Does it deny that Congress has the power to commence a general system of internal improvements? By no means. Does it deny that Congress has the power to carry on a general system of internal improvements? By no means. It simply declares that Congress has not the power to "commence and carry on" such a system. There is wide latitude for evasion here.

And then, again, it does not forbid the commencement and carrying on, both or either, of any special works of internal improvements desired by any particular portions of the Union. All that it forbids is works coming under the head of "a general system;" and what description of works shall be so classed is yet, we believe, an undetermined question.

The resolution, therefore, is without practical application or significance, and was merely written under the presumption that votes could be caught by this seeming strict construction of the construction.

If the men who thus resolved had but known the principles of their own nominee, they might have been spared the necessity of this disreputable electioneering trick; for it happens that upon this subject he stands fully committed upon the record as the deadly foe of every measure of improvement by the general government. The channels and harbors of our rivers, lakes, and bays, are alike to him objects concerning which the general government has nothing to do. He of necessity, and give a full anti-improvement interpretration to their own resolution. This will answer well enough among the ignorant, the careless, and the disinterested; but there are many Democrats whom it will never suit, and who will an interpretation of the constitution of their

The WHIGS have spoken with reference to this subject, and their language admits of but one interpretation. It is in the following words:

" Resolved, THAT THE CONSTITUTION VESTS IN CONGRESS THE POWER TO OPEN AND REPAIR HAR-BORS AND REMOVE OBSTRUCTIONS FROM NAVIGABLE RIVERS, AND IT IS EXPEDIENT THAT CON-GRESS SHOULD EXERCISE SUCH POWER, SAID IMPROVEMENTS BEING, IN EVERY INSTANCE. BATIONAL AND GENERAL IN THEIR CHARACTER."

There is no possibility here of equivocation or evasion. Citizens of one locality cannot be told, in view of this, that the public treasure is not to be expended even in the improvement of our national marine highways, while those who dwell contiguous to such thoroughfares shall be assured that the necessary improvements they need do not come under the ban levelled at "a general system of internal improvements!" There is no underground work here. Our views and purposes are national, as our party is national: our principles are set forth in good faith, and so shall we abide by them. It is for the American people to decide whether they will be again duped by an artful and designing horde of political managers, who seek nothing but their votes, and these only as a means of gaining access to place, power, and the dispensation of patronage.

Monigomery County, Maryland,

Extracts from the Rockville Journal of Saturday last:

"We have not heard of a single death from havesting, in our county, this season, notwith-standing the intensity of the heat. This is doubtless to be attributed to the entire abscence of ar dent spirits from the fields. Very few harvest hands will touch liquor at work, and, indeed, very few of our colored laborers use it at all."

"J. Mortimore Kilgour, esq., of our county, delivered a very handsome and impressive dis course on Tuesday evening, the 5th instant, upon the life and character of Henry Clay."

Scott. The Teachings of a Great Lesson

The Louisville Journal makes the following forcible observations in regard to the detraction with which our public men are but too commonly assailed in their lifetime:

"It is true that Henry Clay's death has dis-rmed his political foes, but his glorious life hould have disarmed them. There were in his ife a thousand deeds that should have called orth from them, as American citizens, admiration, reverence, applause, and gratitude; but there was little else in his death than the calm and peaceful return of dust to dust.

"For more than a quarter of a century Mr. Clay was the most fiercely abused man and the most incessantly abused man that ever lived in this country. No other ten, twenty, or fifty men were so much abused as he. Throughout nearly the lifetime of a generation, numberless charges, for which, if they had been true, he would have deserved to be hunted out from all human society, were brought against him, and daily reiter ated against him by the whole banded press, and by almost the whole banded masses of one of the reat political parties of the country. And now all the charges so ferociously asserted and so ob stinately persevered in-charges which nearly broke the heart of their illustrious victim, might as that heart was in its power of resistance to wrong—are retracted by those who uttered them, and are succeeded by the loudest and most enthusiastic praises that ever vainly fell upon the dull, cold ear of death.

"These things have their lesson. They should each the old assailants of Henry Clay to be careful how they denounce the great living benefac tors of their country. Those very men are now engaged in pursuing Gen. Winfield Scott as if he were a public enemy, entitled to no more forbearance than a traitor, a pirate, or a wild beast. Gen. Winfield Scott is an old man, and he, in the course of a few days, will die as Henry Clay has died, and then, as in the case of Henry Clay, the savage assailants of his living fame will unite with the rest of the people of the United States in giving tears and blessings to his memory, and warmly and enthusiastically proclaim him what -a pure, upright, nobl and most devoted patriot, who has consecrated his life to his country, and done incomparably more than any other man now on the stage of existence for the proman now on the stage motion of that country's glory.

"Oh are there not thousands, and tens thousands, and hundreds of thousands, of honest Democrats, who will vindicate the living Scott against his infuriated traducers, instead of waiting to have 'the late remorse of love' awakened within their bosoms by the closing of the grave over all of him that is mortal ?"

Stuart's Portrait of Washington.

This is universally acknowledged to be the best likeness of Washington extant, as it is the best painting among the many "counterfeit presentments" of that great man.

T. B. Welsh, esq., has produced an engraved copy of this portrait that, we are assurred, is as members of the Town Councils, the Board of indeed is committed in fact, where the Convention | perfect an imitation of Stuart's painting as it is only desired to have a seeming commitment. The possible to make through the agency of the en-Democratic party must therefore make a virtue graver's art. An impression from this engraving ination of the female department, under Mrs is before us-a valued gift from Mr. Robert King, now in this city.

The excellence of the original, and the faithfulness of this copy, are attested by the evidence of E. D. Marchaut, a pupil of Stuart; G. W. P. never submit to so narrow-minded and unpatriotic Curtis, G. M. Dallas, Edward Everett, C. L. Elliott, Jared Sparks, R. W. Emmerson, R. B. Taney, Wm. H. Prescott, Chester Harding, Robt. C. Winthrop, Lewis Cass, P. F. Rotherwell, Washington Irving, Wm. A. Graham, John Duer, Thomas C. Upham, and John P. Kennedy.

Frames of magnificent beauty are supplied by Mr. King with this engraving.

We concur in the opinion we have heard expressed, that Congress should procure copies for the adornment of every prominent public office in the country.

Parson Brownlow.

There is perhaps nowhere a better scold than this furious old gentleman. "He prints," the New York Tribune remarks, "the only Whig paper in all the Southwest that opposes General Scott, and has recently tried his hand at getting up a meeting in his own Knoxville to reject Gen. Scott's nomination. By the help of the entire lecofoco party, he got up considerable of a row, but failed of his object. The meeting broke up in confusion, but he admits in his paper that the majority were for Scott."

These noisy men count no more in voting time than your even, quiet voters; though they often mislead plain, simple people before the elections.

[Communicated.] Small Notes

MESSRS. EDITORS: If Congress be determined to pass an act prohibiting the issue of small notes within the District of Columbia by unchartered institutions, is it not incumbent upon that honorable body to provide a substitute? As long as silver is worth more than gold, how are the people to be accommodated?

At all events, a free banking law, similar to that of New York, based upon national and State stocks, would seem to be indispensable.

Experience has proved, the world over, that highly penal enactments, when in conflict with public interest, always become inoperative. Witness the inefficiency of the laws now on the statute-book against banking of any description. The banks of this city are liable to a penalty of $10,000 for issuing notes, and yet in not a single instance has there been an enforcement of this

The Pire on the Capitol Grounds.

CAPITOL EXTENSION, July 20, 1852. FRIEND CONNOLLY: You have been misin formed about the fire in the lime-shed at the Capitol extension. There were about thirty barrels of lime piled in one of the cellar rooms, with a few boards on top to cover them. The water ran in through the windows on Saturday night, and at half-past 1 o'clock the boards took fire-I was immediately on the ground, with a few o my men, and put it out without the aid of the fire engine, and without a cent's loss to government. The lime is just as good as when it was in barrels Yours, respectfully, SAMUEL STRONG. General Superintendent.

FROM THE WASHINGTON "UNION." APRIL 10, 1847.] "Glorious Achievement.

'Victory follows victory in rapid succession It was a settled maxim that we could never ceas this war with honor until we had taken the castle of San Juan de Ulloa. Thanks be to our distinquished and skilful general—to his brave officers and men-to the gallant officers and men of our navy, this great achievmement has been effected with little loss of life on our part. We have taken the Gibraltar of the Western Continent. We have added new laurels to our wreath. THE GRATI-TUDE AND ADMIRATION OF A FREE PEOPLE ARE DUE TO MAJOR GENERAL SCOTT. We congratulate our country again upon the prowess of their army and navy. It less than eleven months, a succession of achievemen has poured in upon us which would grace the annals of any people under the sun. Let our countrymen rejoice, and let them pour out their thanks to th brave men who have done honor to the character of this free country. "A feu de joie was fired this day, by Captain Mordecai, at the arsenal in this city. The mani festations of a people's joy will spread as far an as fast as the glorious news is circulated of the capture of Vera Cruz."
